

GARDENING TO ATTRACT POLLINATORS

Saturday, June 25th, 10 am

An educational program presented by Lourdes Osorio, Friends of Laurelwood Arboretum Board member and a Rutgers Certified Master Gardener. Lourdes is the creator of the Native Plant Channel on YouTube and Facebook, an educational channel that produces videos to help gardeners grow native plants.

Anyone can create a garden that buzzes with life and attracts butterflies, bees, and other pollinators. Lourdes will discuss how to improve your local ecosystem by creating a habitat designed for pollinators. She will address garden design, maintenance and plant selection and recommend suitable host plants and specify which pollinators they support.

The Knippenberg Center for Education

725 Pines Lake Drive West, Wayne, NJ

www.laurelwoodarboretum.org

Friends of Laurelwood Arboretum
Connecting People with Nature

