

PLEIN AIR CLASS

at Laurelwood Arboretum

This plein air class will focus on how painting in the sun and nature affects us and our work, and how it and gives us a feeling we want to capture. Because the elements change the colors and lighting in a landscape, a faster and looser approach is required. We will work on simplifying the composition, layering washes of color and using dry brush techniques to create a dynamic composition.

Donna Read has been teaching watercolor painting for over 20 years. She started working with watercolor because she loved the fluid look. For many years she has done portraits and landscapes, but florals have always been her favorite thing to paint because of the luminosity that can be achieved with watercolor.
